

Clare Sandrin

708 Granite Avenue NW

Clare Sandrin is an independent contractor working as a costumer in New Mexico's film industry. She has worked for a number of main-line directors and with many of the current screen star actors. Her new house, remodeled from the before condition shown below, is a great space for a single person, with open, two-story space and lots of natural light.

Comments on her house:

“It was the garage for the house on 8th Street, The garage was built around 1915-20, then an addition was put on to it in the 1940s and upgraded in the 1970s. The lot was spit off sometime...I don't know when. I found the house while I was out walking...it was the littlest, ugliest house...[I thought]...its gotta be cheap!! Plumbing was outside the walls...my father [the designer/builder who rehabed the house] was horrified by the condition of the place, including the wiring.
