

Richard Chapman, Laura Ferrara & Elaine Mingus 1211 Roma Avenue NW

Built by Walter Trumbull in 1882, this was one of the first houses built between Old Town and the rail line to the east at New Albuquerque. The style of the house is Italianate with a Mansard roof. The Trubulls, an Italian family, brought Italian stone masons to Albuquerque and the railroad brought the red sandstone from Isleta. This three story house was designed as a duplex with two main entrances facing east and west. There was no electricity or indoor plumbing until around 1910.

The Hesselden House

Around 1890 the house became the Goss Military Institute and then was home to the Hesselden family from about 1900 to 1930. Around 1940 the house was converted into an 8-plex apartment and listed in city directories as “The Stone House Apartments”.
